About the Book

Lightning-fast, Camera, Action!

A mountain biking vacation in Mexico goes awry when vacationers and their two guides stumble upon a massacre between rebel forces and militia over drugs and antique gold coins. The race for survival is on, the group is forced to deal with greed and betrayal, while being hunted by determined criminals who will stop at nothing to recover their loot.

"The Silberbergs' well-developed characters remain credible even in severe circumstances... The story races through invigorating twists, including double crosses among both the good and bad guys, an explosion or two, and the use of a bike as a weapon (of sorts)... A curvy thriller with a few unexpected turns." ...Kirkus Reviews

Life and death decisions confront them at every turn and ultimately, greed decides who lives and dies.
